

AIRPORTS SECURITY OFFICE

ALOHA & WELCOME 2024!

As we begin the next volume of our Security Newsletter, we find ourselves well into the second month of 2024. The New Year and lunar New Year were ushered in with fireworks intended to spark new beginnings and ward off ill-intentions. Whether you celebrate or believe in such traditions, this gives us a good segway to announce something new coming to our airports statewide ... Aviation Worker Screening. Keep up to date with what is happening at the different locations, starting with the Daniel K. Inouye International Airport (HNL) in March, by checking information disseminated via Airport Notices and the Security Newsletter.

AVIATION WORKER SCREENING BEGINS MARCH

Airports nationwide are being required to screen Aviation Workers for prohibited items at Access Points (doors) from the Public Area to the Secured Area and Sterile Area of the airport terminals. This is a requirement by the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) to combat any issues of safety, security, and insider threat at US airports.

Effective March 11, 2024, the Daniel K. Inouye International Airport (HNL) will begin screening Aviation Workers with SIDA Badges at selected doors in Terminal 1 and Terminal 2.

WHAT TO EXPECT

March 11th will be here before you know it. What this means for Aviation Workers (airport employees at HNL) and what they should expect are:

- On Monday, March 11, 2024, selected Access Points throughout Terminal 1 (IIT) and Terminal 2 (OST) will become aviation worker screening locations.
- ALL AVIATION WORKERS will be subject to screening on a random, continuous basis at Access Points in Terminal 1 and Terminal 2.
- Anyone entering the screening location must comply with the screening requirements. Refusal may result in:
 - Temporary or permanent revocation of the person's Airport ID Badge.
 - Monetary fines and/or civil penalties.

MAHALO FOR A GREAT HOLIDAY SEASON

Every job at the airport is important. As we are getting back to our daily routines after the holidays, this is a good time to thank everyone for working hard through the holiday season as employees and travelers traversed our airports day in and day out. The Pass and ID Offices at Daniel K. Inouye International Airport, Hilo International Airport, and Lihue Airport shared group photos of their crew. Thank you to all the Pass and ID Office personnel for all they do to keep us credentialed and secure at our airports around the State of Hawaii. Have a great new year!

AIRPORT ID BADGE EXPIRATION CHECK

Take the time to check your Airport ID Badge for your expiration date. You do not want to be caught close to being expired during a long weekend or being past due. Plan ahead and meet with your Authorized Signatory to update your Airport ID Badge on time.

PREVENT PIGGYBACKING

(Repost from December 2023)

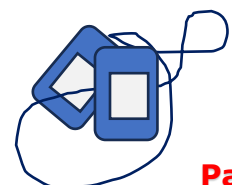

Piggybacking, a security violation, is allowing a person access to a restricted area (e.g., Secured, AOA, SIDA, or Sterile) without them using their own Airport ID Badge and entering their PIN at the access point or being under appropriate escort.

Do not enter a restricted area if there is someone or something suspicious in the vicinity. Proceed to a more lighted or populated area. Notify Airport Security immediately of any suspicious person or items.

HAWAII'S RAINY SEASON

Hawaii's rainy season continues through to the month of March and with it often comes wind and sudden showers. When wearing jackets and rain gear, remember to display your Airport ID Badge on your outer garment above the waistline. Stay healthy by keeping warm and dry while still staying in compliance.

Visible display of one's Airport ID Badge helps each of us ensure that only authorized persons are in restricted areas (e.g., Secured, AOA, SIDA, or Sterile). If you notice someone without an Airport ID Badge, approach and ask the person for their Airport ID Badge. If needed, contact your Airport Security.
